

Collaborative Divorce may be right for you if you have the following priorities:

- You want legal, financial, and emotional help available to you during your divorce.
- You have children and you are committed to the best outcome for them.
- You want to manage the costs of divorce.
- You want to reduce the conflict that often accompanies divorce.
- You are committed to open, honest, and respectful communication.
- You want a confidential process without adversarial attorneys and without going to trial.
- You want to be in control of your destiny rather than relying on a court's decision.
